To whom it may concern:

I am writing to urge that prominent, clear and easy to understand labels be required on any foods which contain one or more irradiated ingredients. I also am in favor of maintaining current wording (no euphemisms such as "electronically pasturized" should be permitted as they are unclear and confusing).

I feel that consumers are owed information by the producers of products and that whether a firm is primary or tertiary producer, the item which is expected to be consumed should be labeled according to its entire content. I don't feel that there ought to be an expiration date for these labelling requirements either.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

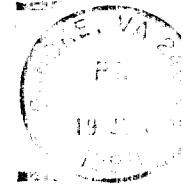

Janice R. Dowling
